

A NATIONAL COMMUNITY

For over 40 years, the Canadian Evaluation Society (CES) has helped evaluation professionals build and advance their careers, providing a wide range of professional development opportunities and expert resources.

Through our national operations and network of Chapters, members and partners, we build awareness of evaluation, promote the development of evaluation theory and practice, advocate for the use of quality evaluation, and lead the professionalization of our profession.

The Benefits of Belonging

When you join CES, you enter a diverse network of evaluation professionals from a variety of backgrounds, disciplines and sectors. We offer the resources to support you, no matter your level of knowledge or experience.

Through CES, I learn about diverse ways of thinking, approaches and tools in evaluation, which help me to continuously improve my evaluation practice.

Vanessa Anastasopoulos,
CE, PhD

The most valuable aspect of my membership with CES has been the professional relationships and friendships that I have formed.

Ryan Catte, CE, MA

Continuous Learning

Get access to the latest knowledge and tools for evaluators for free or at discounted rates. Join us for webinars, professional development events, conferences and more. Check out our literature database and the Canadian Journal of Program Evaluation. You can also explore our e-Institute for self-paced and facilitated online courses designed by and for evaluators.

Career Advancement

Evaluation is an exciting field, offering many opportunities to grow throughout your career. Join our Mentoring Initiative, take part in our Student Case Competition or check out our job board. You can also earn the Credentialed Evaluator (CE) designation to show your commitment to excellence.

Connection

You don't have to go it alone. Our members support each other through local and national events, our many committees and working groups, and as contributors to our courses and publications. There are several membership categories to match where you are in your career.
